Player Description:

Sebastian Olderheim is a young technical winger/attacking midfielder who is comfortable receiving to feet and combining in wide and half-space areas. Physically, he shows good agility, balance and body control, but lacks strength in physical duels. His main strengths are his technique, close control, spatial awareness and link-up play. He changes direction well when carrying the ball, often cutting inside onto his preferred right foot, and finds good pockets of space to receive and combine through short passes. His main weaknesses are his physicality, limited runs in behind, lack of verticality and inconsistent end product. He does not appear to have standout pace or acceleration, rarely threatens the space behind the defensive line and mostly chooses safer lateral options rather than progressing play vertically. His crossing has good shape and curve but inconsistent accuracy, while his shooting is technical but lacks power, frequency and consistent accuracy. Out of possession, he is disciplined in his own half, generally holding his position well and marking opponents adequately. Due to his recent ACL injury, immediate recruitment action should be avoided, with follow-up recommended after his recovery to reassess his physical level, verticality and end product.
